CASE STUDY—Port Marine Safety Code Compliance

Customer problem/requirement

Since 2001 we have assisted Ports of all descriptions with compliance with the Port Marine Safety Code. We have assisted the largest and busiest ports as well as small leisure harbours. The assistance we have provided has ranged from external audits of existing Safety Management Systems through overhaul and refreshment to completing the required risk assessments and compiling compliant systems from scratch.

Benefits to customer

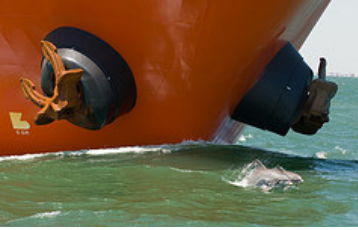

By engaging regs4ships our customers are getting an unbiased and objective view of an experienced consultant familiar with port operations and with the Port Marine Safety Code. We are able to provide Harbour Authority Duty Holders with the information and recommendations they need to be able to discharge their statutory functions. One of our customers was among the first three ports to obtain "Leading Lights" status in a scheme jointly administered by the British Ports Association and the UK Department for Transport.

Special Skills brought by regs4ships

Our knowledge of Harbour Authorities, harbour law and the Port Marine Safety Code equip us with the ability to address all areas of compliance with the Code pragmatically, proportionally and discreetly.

What our customers thought

"Harbour Authorities are diverse by nature and the assistance we can provide will recognise that diversity. We are independent, yet we strive to work with those seeking our assistance to provide pragmatic solutions. We are available on a 'pick and put down' basis or on longer term packages tailored to our customer's needs"

Mark Capon, Managing Director, regs4ships Ltd

They welcome our involvement and keep returning to us whenever they need objective and practical help and expertise. One customer said "It was very refreshing to witness an audit which was not just another paper exercise. The audit followed a commonsense route focusing on the practical issues which I believe are of greater value to the customer. I know that both the Harbour Master & Designated Person were happy with the service provided and would not hesitate in calling on you again in the future".
